

When it comes to a course in my Information Technology major of an assignment I did that I felt was significant and helped me learn a lot about it as well as for the course itself too, that would be a semester project for my IT-1010-1 Intro Information Technology course.

For what this particular assignment was with how I did it, that would be that I gave a possible dream job that I would want to have/pursue after college within my major with saying two states that I would like to have it in with then going on to say all the courses that I have taken currently so far up until that point in the major with all the skills and requirements that I have gained from them as well as all of the other skills and requirements that I hope to gain from all of the other future required courses with also saying any certifications and previous jobs that I have had as well as any prior experience up until then with saying I had none and will learn and accomplish everything as I go along. Along with that, I also gave an overview of my major as a whole with what it is all about as well as everything that is done in it with duties and responsibilities too along with also saying what I specifically hope to achieve in this kind of job field. I then went on from there with listing five different jobs in each of the two states I mentioned before with listing various different things about each one with also saying whether I would currently qualify for any of them depending on their skills/requirements. Lastly, I also listed monthly and one-time expenses for an apartment as well.

All in all, when it comes to what I learned from this assignment, that would be how to research a particular job area with finding certain specific jobs within it and learning and writing about them with stating how they would apply to me along with also listing and calculating all of the expenses for an apartment as well that I would need with the job.
